Chris Noltekuhlmann - Director

Chris was born in the 90's in a small German village, now living in Berlin working as a freelance Photographer and Director. What inspires him most about his work, is that he always enjoys what he is doing as it is not only his job but also his passion. His work lets him get to know interesting people and takes him to amazing places. He draws inspiration from the music he is listening to, places he visits and people he meets. There is always a story to tell and a fresh perspective to be discovered. That's why he is able to put all his power and ability into each project to make the most of it.
