Bogdan Filip - Cinematographer

Bogdan was born and raised in Bucharest and graduated from the Caragiale National University of Theatre and Film in 2003, specializing in cinematography. His artistic vision mainly centers around narrative films, with a portfolio boasting a plethora of famous TV commercials, promos, and music videos.

Notable brands such as Adidas, Netflix , ING, McDonald's, Orange, Vodafone, Reiffeisen, Denner, Kaufland, KFC, Lenovo, Lidl and Red Bull are just a few of the high-profile clients who have benefited from his talent. In 2019, his feature film "Matthew Mark Luke John," directed by Tom Wilson, was nominated for the Best Performance award at London's Raindance Film Festival. And now, Wilson's second feature film, "Dark Ages," featuring Bogdan's cinematography expertise, will be released in May of this year.

Bogdan's extensive experience has enabled him to collaborate with production crews and companies from all over the world, including the UK, Italy, Greece, Germany and Spain. He seamlessly blends his technical skills as a director of photography with his boundless creative imagination to deliver remarkable visual experiences.

Despite his vast professional experience, Bogdan remains a grounded and easy going individual, imaginative and quality driven, successfully combining his technical skills of a Director of Photography with his cinematographic visual creativity.
